

Cascade Forge - Company Policies (v3.1)

Acceptable Use

All Cascade Forge employees, contractors, and interns must use company-issued hardware for company work. Personal devices may not access production systems under any circumstances. Devices must be encrypted at rest using FileVault, BitLocker, or LUKS depending on platform. Lost or stolen devices must be reported to security@cascadeforge.com within two hours of discovery.

Data Classification

Cascade Forge classifies internal information into four tiers:

- Public - Material intended for external distribution (marketing pages, product documentation, public blog posts).
- Internal - General employee communications. May be shared widely within the company but not outside.
- Confidential- Customer data, financial figures, unreleased product plans. Sharing externally requires written approval from the data owner.
- Restricted - Source code for security-sensitive components, production credentials, individual customer PII. Access is granted on a least-privilege basis and logged.

Mishandling Restricted data is grounds for immediate termination.

Access Reviews

A quarterly access review is performed by the Security team. Every employee's access to production systems, cloud accounts, and customer data is re-attested by their manager. Reviews must complete within ten business days of the start of each calendar quarter. Stale access is revoked automatically by the Sentinel tool seven days after a missed review.

Vendor Management

Any third-party SaaS vendor that processes Cascade Forge or customer data must complete a security questionnaire and sign a DPA prior to use. The Security team maintains an authoritative register of approved vendors. Engineers must not enable new integrations on production accounts without an entry in this register.

Incident Reporting

Any suspected security event - a phishing attempt, a leaked credential, an unexpected device on the corporate network - must be reported to security@cascadeforge.com or via the #sec-incidents internal channel within one hour of discovery. The Security team will triage and, if needed, initiate the formal incident response process described in the engineering handbook.

Acceptable Time Off

Cascade Forge offers a flexible time-off policy. Full-time employees are expected to take a minimum of fifteen working days per calendar year, in addition to public holidays in their country of residence. Time off must be requested at least two weeks in advance for blocks of more than three consecutive days, and approved by the employee's manager.

Travel and Expenses

All business travel must be booked through the company's travel partner. Hotel reimbursement is capped at $300 per night in tier-1 cities and $200 per night elsewhere. Receipts are required for all individual expenses over $25.

Code of Conduct

Cascade Forge is committed to a respectful and inclusive workplace. Harassment, discrimination, and retaliation will not be tolerated. Violations should be reported to Sofia Reyes, Head of People, or anonymously via the third-party ethics line.

This policy was last reviewed by the People and Security teams on 1 December 2025. The next scheduled review is 1 June 2026.
